An excerpt from The Literary World: A Monthly Review of Current Literature: A thesis successfully offered by Mary Mills Patrick, for a degree at the University of Bern, is here printed, as supplying what had before been lacking in English, a convenient statement of the tenets of Pyrrhonism. The technical term epoch, used to mean suspension of judgment, appears to be very prominent in this system, and prized as a means to the desirable end called alaraxia, tranquillity. Pyrrho, from whom the school of thought was often called Pyrrhonism, was an ascetic moralist in the suite of Alexander the Great in India, later living at Elis. Sextus Empiricus is believed to have been a physician, in about the last part of the second century of our era, and a Greek, though probably resident at Rome, who wrote in advocacy of skeptical views of phenomena. A translation of the first book of his work, Pyrrhonic Sketches, is annexed to the essay. This contains the ten tropes which form a most important part of this philosophy, and which seem to...
