Seppel, in his wish to possess the Crags and marry Rosel, is ready to agree to anything, though I have counted over and over the income and expenditure, and proved to him that a few florins at the end of the year is all he can expect to put aside, and may be thankful, when he has a family, if he can keep clear of debt. Oh no I don t advise I leave everything to you Come, come, Crags, said the forester, smiling, we all know your love of contradiction, but this is going too far. People say you have managed to save money, and I suppose your son can do the same. My savings are said to be more considerable than they really are, observed the peasant. After thirty years management of the...
